Internship international business at start-up in innovative sustainable environment

Buxkin is a self-producing design company in wall and floor materials such as recycled leather for the international architect- and construction market. We are looking for;

a trainee international business with interest in innovative and sustainable products.

What's in it for you

- / Getting commercial experienced at a start-up
- / Getting experienced with a fast growing premium international label.
- / Internship compensation; 0-500 euro per month.

Function description

You will work together closely with the owners, shareholders and colleague finance. The focus of your tasks will lay mostly on the commercial side of international business . You will be introduced to our collection and our customer base which includes: architects, interior architects, and contractors. You will learn about their and our needs. Depending on your experience you will get your tasks; an acquisition plan will be set-up together.

During your internship you will have contact with Buxskins international sales agents and support them to do their jobs successfully. You will hear a lot about our sustainable R&D and purchase and finance activities too. Your colleagues will be easy to reach; we work together closely. Our office is located just outside the city centre. The train station is just at a 15 minute walk away from our office.

Good verbal and written skills in English are required, extra languages are an advantage. Interest in materials, architecture, sustainability and interior design would be greatly appreciated.
