

BIO Jan Veldhoen – Co-owner and Co-founder Buxkin, NL

As a child I was fascinated by the work of my uncle, an architect and photographer. He taught me a lot about technique and function.

Jan Veldhoen loves people, sports and singing and plans one day to travel to Japan and Argentina.

After his training as a cabinet-maker, he started his work at an interior architect. As a designer he came into contact with special materials and products and textiles in particular became his passion. After a period as representative for Kvadrat and Ruckstuhl carpets, together with Wilma Dijkgraaf he founded the company Buxkin. In this company they both share their passion for green materials and innovation.
